Lexington Public Library Invites Companies to Participate in Spring Take Home Job Fair

Lexington, Kentucky (March 7, 2022) – The Lexington Public Library invites local businesses to participate in its Spring Take Home Job Fair.

The Take Home Job Fair, which will be held in early April, is a great opportunity for employers to seek prospective employees. There is no cost to employers to participate.

Lexington area employers may send a one-page document listing their open and available positions along with an application website to Lori Davis at workforce@lexpublib.org no later than March 15, 2022. Employers may wish to provide small promotional items as giveaways.

The first two Take Home Job Fairs last October and January were extremely well-received by employers and job seekers alike. The Lexington Public Library will continue to encourage the development of its community's workforce.

For more information on job and career services available through the Lexington Public Library and their partners, please visit www.lexpublib.org and their social media pages @lexpublib

About the Lexington Public Library

The Lexington Public Library serves a merged city-county jurisdiction of 300,000+ people through a central library, 5 neighborhood branches, an active Community Education department, and rapidly expanding virtual services. In addition to traditional library services, we support a digital studio with a full array of video and audio editing equipment for customer use; an art gallery; state of the art theater for live performances, movies, and presentations; a bilingual homework help program; a library YouTube channel; and a "Book a Librarian" program for customers who need in-depth research assistance, reader's advisory, or help with their digital devices. Whatever your age or interest, you can expand your horizons and exercise your brain by visiting the "people's university" – your local public library. Here you will find resources, programs, and experts to help you explore any topic you desire. Lexington Public Library is ready to welcome you!
